Family History : This old Neapolitan family goes back to the XIV century, when they were feudal lords.

Prominence arrived with a Cardinal-Archbishop of Naples in 1785. But the family had already acquired the title of Prince (1727) on the basis of male primogeniture. Naples had long been a centre of immense power and influence; the Kingdoms of Naples and of the Two Sicilies etc. This did not mean that titles automatically applied in the rest of Italy, particularly since Naples was so closely identified with Spain.

However, the rank of Prince was officially recognised in the Kingdom of Italy in 1904.
